

O. HENRY PRIZE STORIES: 2017

This team-taught class will use the paperback text The O Henry Prize Stories of 2017, edited by Laura Furman. Short stories chosen for the 2017 O. Henry Prize focus on human relationships, depicting the complex lives of characters with whom readers will engage with deep insight and feeling. These stories are thought-provoking, intimate, intriguing, and diverse. Two or three stories will be read each week; class discussion will be encouraged.

Leaders: Gerrit and Barbara Bleeker are retired university English professors from the state of Kansas Regents System.

Tuesdays: 1:30 to 3:30 p.m., 8 weeks: February 27 through April 17

Location: Presbyterian Church of Lawrenceville
